MANY DEATHS RESULT

FATAL BOILER EXPLOSION IN A SPINNING MILL NEAR MAN-RESA, SPAIN.

WRECKS HALF THE VILLAGE

Estimated That Sixty People Are Killed and a Hundred Injured—Thirty of the Latter Not Expected to Live—Heads, Arms and Legs, Separated From Bodies, and Unrecognizable Corpses Are Found.

Barcelona, Jan. 20.—The explosion of the boiler of a spinning mill near Manresa destroyed half the village of Ponte de Vilumara. The hospital at Manresa is filled with the injured.
Sixteen mutilated bodies of working people buried in the debris have been recovered. These include the manager of the spinning mill and his two sisters. It is estimated that 60 persons were killed and 100 injured. Of the persons injured 30 are not expected to recover. The dead included many children.

The boiler exploded in the evening when the mill hands, many of whom were accompanied by their wives and children, were eating supper before commencing their night's work. The buildings of the mill collapsed entirely and the debris was hurled in all directions, destroying other buildings and killing and injuring the people in the vicinity. Owing to the darkness the work of extricating the victims proceeded with great difficulty. During the work of rescue there were heard the groans of the victims whose mutilated limbs were pinned down by the ruins. A long line of carts and carriages was engaged in conveying the injured to the Manresa hospital, five miles distant.

In the morning the inhabitants went among the ruins, seeking the remains of friends and relatives, while the priests in the open air administered the last rites of the church to the dying.

The search at the scene of the explosion was continued during the day by members of the Red Cross society and officials. Heads, arms and legs, separated from the bodies, and unrecognizable blackened corpses were found. The village of Ponte de Vil-umara is desolated.

GENERAL STRIKE ORDERED.

Papermakers Will Close Twenty-five Mills in Wisconsin.

Kaukauna, Wis., Jan. 20.—A general strike was ordered at a joint meeting of the Appleton, Kaukauna and Neenah lodges of the United Brotherhood of Papermakers, which will result in less than three weeks in closing 25 mills in the state of Wisconsin, throwing out of employment 3,000 laborers and cutting off over 780 tons a day from the supply of the paper market, unless the demands of the union for shorter hours are granted. Further than this, the movement is soon to spread through every paper making district in the Northwest.

Representatives of the union are now working the Wisconsin river valley and a formal demand for the new schedule is to be sent to all the mills in this district before next Saturday.
The union is also in communication with the mills outside the Fox and Wisconsin river valleys, which will receive the demands at about the same time. The manufacturers will be given one or two weeks' time in which to make a reply and nothing but an immediate and unconditional granting of the demands, it is authoritatively stated, can prevent the big walkout at the end of the period.

The Engineer Was Asleep.

Kansas City, Jan. 20.—A westbound Missouri Pacific passenger train collided head-on with an eastbound freight train one mile east of Etiah.
Five passengers were injured, but no one was killed. Engineer William Maze of the freight train had fallen asleep in his cab and ran past Etiah, where he had been ordered to meet the passenger.

Killed on a Trestle.

Brenhan, Tex., Jan. 20.—Professor W. C. Crossman and his 15-year-old son Willie were caught on a trestle one mile north of town during the evening and run down by a passenger train. Both were instantly killed.

BUILDINGS ARE IN RUINS

COLLAPSE OF FOUR STRUC-TURES IN DETROIT'S WHOLE-SALE DISTRICT.

NO ONE KILLED OR INJURED

Property Loss Will Amount to Over a Quarter of a Million—Cause of the Accident Unknown, Though Indications Point to an Explosion—Debris Catches on Fire and Only a Smouldering Heap Remains.

Detroit, Jan. 20.—Four buildings, each four stories high, located in the heart of the wholesale district of the city, collapsed at 3:30 p. m. Sunday without any apparent cause and all that now remains is a smouldering heap of ruins. The buildings were a part of the block bounded by Jefferson avenue and Shelby and Griswold streets, and were occupied by five concerns, and their stocks are a total loss, which is estimated at $152,000, exclusive of the loss on the buildings, which amounts to $50,500. The buildings joined each other at the corner of Jefferson avenue and Shelby street.
No one seems to know what caused the collapse of the buildings. On Sunday night that district is practically deserted and the few who were in the vicinity say that the buildings seemed to fall into a heap without apparent cause, making a noise like the rumbling of distant thunder.
There are evidences of an explosion about the ruins, but no one heard a sound of such an explosion. The walls of the rear part of one of the buildings are still standing to the height of two stories, but the roof of this part of the building lies bottom side upward in the middle of Shelby street, and a large iron smokestack lies on the sidewalk on the opposite side of the street, smashed against the buildings there as if driven by force.

Experts from the Detroit Gas company's office made an examination of the ruins, but said they were unable to find evidences of a gas explosion.

It was fortunate that the wreck occurred on Sunday night. Had it happened during business hours the loss of life would have been appalling, as there were approximately 200 persons employed by the various firms. They would have been caught in a veritable death trap and crushed and burned before they could have been rescued.
The buildings collapsed into a heap and in a short space of time the inflammable material caught fire from the furnaces used for heating the buildings. There were no watchmen about the premises, consequently there will be no loss of life. No one was injured, nor is there any one who can give a definite reason for the catastrophe.

NEWS FROM MISS STONE.

Captive Missionary and Her Companion Are Well.

Constantinople, Jan. 20.—Reliable news has been received here that Miss Ellen M. Stone, the captive American missionary, Mme. Tsilka, her companion, and the latter's baby, are well.
Negotiations which it is expected will result in the early and safe return of the captives are in progress.

John G. A. Leishman, the American minister here, is now directing the negotiations. He declines to say anything for publication, but admits there is ground for the above report.

To Tell Story of Goebel's Murder.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 20.—Attorneys for the defense in the Jim Howard murder case say that they will put on the witness stand reliable persons who will give all the details of the alleged Goebel murder conspiracy. They say that this testimony will show that Howard had nothing to do with the crime.

KILLED BY ROBBERS.

Aged Jeweler at Rochester, N. Y., Found Dead in His Store.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 20.—Bela E.
Brown, aged 65, a prominent dealer in diamonds and manufacturer of jewelry, was found murdered in his store here. His legs were tied together and he was gagged with a long red neck scarf. At the back of the head was a hole extending into the brain and there were several gashes in the scalp, evidently made by a hammer which was found near the body smeared with blood and white hairs from the head of the victim. The murdered man's head was covered with blood and a pool of it formed on top of a small chest of drawers over which the head lay. All about were evidences of a determined struggle, but a thorough search failed to discover any positive clue as to the identity of the murderer or murderers.

From the position of the body in front of a safe the conclusion was reached by the police that the murderers had placed Mr. Brown before the safe, which was locked and which contained thousands of dollars' worth of diamonds and jewelry, and tried to force him to work the combination for them. His right hand was covered with blood, indicating that he had raised it to his head when he was struck and tried to ward off the other blows which followed. The murderers secured nothing of value, except, perhaps, a diamond stud which Mr. Brown wore and which is missing.

DOMESTIC'S TERRIBLE DEED.

Hangs Her Employers' Babe and Then Commits Suicide.

Cincinnati, Jan. 20.—Mr. and Mrs.
W. H. Whittaker left for Camden, O., about 40 miles from this city, Sunday morning to spend the day with the parents of Mrs. Whittaker, and left their 5-year-old son, their only child, with Annie Loge, a domestic, who had been with the family only a short time. When they returned Miss Loge was found upstairs in an unconscious condition from asphyxiation. She had turned on the gas and inhaled it from the jet. Later Mr. and Mrs. Whittaker found their dead babe hanging to a gas pipe in the cellar. The indications are that the woman had trouble with the boy and hanged him early in the day and that she inhaled gas just previous to the return of Mr. and Mrs.
Whittaker. She cannot live.

MADE A RICH HAUL.

Trunk Containing Diamonds and Jewelry Stolen at Glendive, Mon.

Glendive, Mon., Jan. 20.—A trunk belonging to a traveling man and containing diamonds and jewelry valued at a large amount was stolen from the express office in the depot here while the westbound train was at the depot at 4 o'clock. At that hour the express agent is busy attending the train and is absent from his office for at least 20 minutes.

That the robbery was committed by professionals is evident from the fact that they knew which trunk contained the jewelry, and it is also evident that more than one man was concerned in the robbery.

The Miner from Great Falls says that extensive prairie fires are reported on the other side of the international boundary extending for a distance of 10 and 20 miles west of Sweet Grass hills. Practically all the range between Milk river and Lethbridge has been swept by the flames. Many hundred tons of hay have already been destroyed. The fire extended to the valuable sheep ranches in the Sweet Grass hills and owners of flocks in that vicinity are confronted by the serious necessity of securing new winter ranges.

Montgomery, W. Va., Jan. 20.—At a colored dance 10 miles south of this place W. B. Slaughter and Ralph Johnson were shot and killed by Lillian Williams, now called Calloway, was mortally wounded, being struck by a stray bullet. The murderer is in jail. Jeal-

CHARLIE TOWNE's opinion of bankers has improved since he became a millionaire.

THE Motley citizen opines that Editor Vassaly is not entirely pleased over the appointment of Editor Fuller as postmaster at Little Falls. It is quite probable that his wishes were not consulted.

THE Chinese law compelling the settlement of all debts on New Years day of each year would be rather an inconvenient one in this country. Just think what a shock it would be to the publisher to have all the delinquent subscribers come in at once.

UNDER the primary election law unsuccessful candidates at the primary election cannot have their name put on the official ballot by petition. This does away with the fellow who tries for the nomination, and then runs independent just to do the other fellow up.

IN Becker county the commissioners have inaugurated a new system of notifying the people of the amount of personal property tax which has heretofore been done by postal card. The card notice has been done away with and instead the entire list, by towns, is published in the official paper and a copy mailed to each personal property tax payer in the county. Thus each individual not only knows what his own tax is but is also advised as to what his neighbor pays.

FOURTEEN HUNDRED ACRE TRACT SOLD

Robert D. Bruce, Large Stock Raiser of Olewein, Ia., Buys Near Brainerd

WILL LOCATE IN CROW WING.

And Will Engage in the Stock Business on Extended and Systematic Scale.

Papers were filed in the office of the register of deeds in this city today transferring a large tract of land to Robert D. Bruce about five miles northeast of the city.

The tract includes fourteen hundred and eight acres, and the price paid for the land was $14,320. Mr. Bruce lives at Olewein, Iowa, where he conducts one of the largest stock farms in that part of the state. He has made much money in this pursuit and his judgment as to the essential details is considered infallible. He has about the largest tract of land in this county and comes with the intention of engaging in the stock business here on a large scale. He will at once commence the construction of large buildings, costing many thousands of dollars on the property and will ship a large number of cattle and horses here as soon as spring opens up.

The land mentioned was sold by the colonization company and is mostly railroad land, especially adapted for stock raising purposes.

An important personal injury suit was commenced in the district court of Stearns county. A Todd county man sues for $5,000 damages for the death of his son who it is alleged was killed on the Great Northern at Havre, Montana, through the carelessness of the employes of the railroad company.

LOVE TRIUMPHANT WON THE BATTLE.

Emil Lindberg and Lucy Donahew
After Traveling A Stony Pathway Are Married.

NOTHING COULD SEPERATE THEM

The Little Episode of Several Weeks Ago Recalled by the Nuptial Event.

The old adage, "True Love Never Dies," was never more vividly exemplified than in the case of little Lucy Donahew, hardly past her fifteenth summer, who Saturday afternoon was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to the man of her choice Emil Lindberg, Judge M. McFadden having been called upon to officiate.

The story of Lucy's wooing runs like a book, old as the sun, and her fidelity to the one she loved never faltered. It will be remembered about two months ago that the police one night arrested Lucy Donahew and Emil Lindberg and locked them up in the county jail. They were charged with trying to elope, the father of the girl, who lives at Merrifield having intercepted a pretty little romance just as the principals were taking a train for Duluth.

The girl's fidelity to Lindberg was proven when on the day which she was to meet her fiancée at Brainerd she walked all the way from Merrifield, plodding through the deep snow and facing a cold wind. She met by appointment with Lindberg, and having been foiled in their efforts to be made one, they decided to go to Duluth to be married.

The young man the next day was brought into court and was charged with abduction. He was sent back to jail under a bond of $1,000. Upon the hearing he was discharged.

The young girl on the day of the arraignment of her lover was taken home by her father.

Nothing daunted, Emil Lindberg set about it to gain the consent of the father of the girl to give him her hand in marriage. He used diplomacy this time, having failed in the strategic efforts of the first attempt.

To all outward appearances he won, for on Saturday he walked into the office of the judge of probate armed with a marriage license and was married to the girl of his choice legally and without opposition.

Elks Extend Thanks.

The committee in charge of the recent Elks' minstrel entertainment desire to extend their sincere thanks to all who assisted in making the entertainment the great success it proved to be, particularly the chorus singers, soloists and specialty performers. The chorus singers, who attended rehearsals regularly for two months devoted much time and labor to the work, and always displayed great interest in the success of the entertainment. They will always be held in grateful remembrance; also, the performers from out of town, and all others who participated in the entertainment.

TANGLING THEMSELVES UP.

Some More Washington Talk on the Matter of Forest Reserve and National Park Project.

The impression prevails among the members of the Minnesota delegation at Washington who are interested in the forest reserve and national park project that it will only be possible to carry out the plan suggested by Senator Clapp and Judge Morris by reserving from the operations of the bill introduced by the latter, such tracts of land embracing the islands and beauty spots around Leech and Cass lakes as will be requisite for the purposes.

The reason for this opinion is that it is doubted if congress could be induced to appropriate even the amount of $100,000 for the proposed park. It would be necessary to make such a payment if the lands are taken outright by the government, as this could only be done by an agreement with the Indians for payment to them for the value of the lands. It would probably cost a considerably larger sum, in view of the estimated value of the pine on the tracts in question.

Judge Morris has had several interviews with Gifford Pinchot, chief of the forestry division of the department of agriculture, and the judge confesses that he is somewhat impressed by the remarkable statements made by Mr. Pinchot regarding the possibilities for lumbering on the Indian reservations on forest preservation principles. Judge Morris is still doubtful, but he admits that Mr. Pinchot makes a strong case.

The idea advanced by Mr. Pinchot is to cut only a certain part of the merchantable timber each year, taking care of the remainder and, by so doing, the opinion is expressed that the Indians would receive more money for the timber during the course of years and by preserving growing young pine the foundation would be laid for future merchantable timber. The delegation from Minnesota now here are considering these various park and reservation plans and it is possible that some agreement may be reached while the bills introduced by Representatives Morris and Eddy are under consideration by the committee on Indian affairs.

BOOKS IN SCHOOLS.

Nearly Four Hundred Thousand in Minnesota District Libraries--A Great Increase in Twenty years.

Three thousand school libraries in the state of Minnesota last year purchased 48,000 books under the state library aid law, expending therefor $32,000, and bringing the total number of volumes in the schools of the state up to 378,000. In 1880 the total value of all school libraries was less than $6,000. In 1885 there were but 21,000 books in these libraries. In 1890 less than one-fifth of the districts of the state had school libraries. Today nearly half of the rural schools of the state have good libraries, which have cost $303,000. What this means to the rural schools can be partly understood from the wonderful development of the country schools in the past twenty years in this state. The difference today between these schools having libraries and those schools which do not have them, is only too evident in the character of the work done by the schools, the spirit of the school community, and the improvement and lack of improvement to be noted in these districts.

One hundred and twenty thousand school children in every county of the state having the advantages of a school library selected from a list of books picked out by the state library commission is a matter of state pride, while the influence upon the state cannot be measured.

Ice Firms in the City Have Replenished Their Houses for Another Year.

WHAT BRAINERD USES IN A YEAR

C. H. Paine Has Put in About 3,500 Tons and Peter Walters
2,000 Tons.

The ice harvest is about over and those who look forward to discomfiture on sweltering July days can breathe easier. While the people of the city do not think much about it now, when old mercury dances around the 100-in-the-shade point, "the iceman" will be the whole cheese.

There are two ice companies in the city and during the past two weeks they have been particularly active filling their houses with the icy substance. They have put in a good supply and taken altogether have harvested more this year than last.

C. H. Paine has put in the largest supply perhaps, but has not put in a great deal more than he had last year. He has 3500 tons in his house near the bridge across the Mississippi and this he figures will run him through the year all right. Peter Walters who bought out the ice business of C. O. Beck has put up about 2000 tons in his house.

These gentlemen are now busy putting in ice for other concerns such as the breweries etc. and when they complete this work it is figured that Brainerd will have stored away something like 9000 tons for use during the summer.

It might be interesting to note here that Brainerd uses considerable ice. With the 9000 tons it will be seen that nearly a ton to a person in the city is used, which is about the average in New York city, which is supposed to hold the record of the world for the annual consumption of ice.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

MR. WHITESIDE TOMORROW.

After a successful engagement in the Metropolitan Opera House, at Minneapolis, Mr. Walker Whiteside, comes to Brainerd, and tomorrow night he will be seen at the Brainerd Opera House. Just the mention of his name is enough to satisfy those who have kept themselves posted on matters theatrical that the performance tomorrow night will be a perfect one.

Mr. Whiteside, this season starring in the romantic comedy success, "Heart and Sword," is the one artist of renown who does not desire that he be surrounded with a galaxy of almost insignificant lights in order that he shall stand out boldly in the stage picture. He believes that the support of an actor of worth should be as near perfect as it is possible to secure it and consequently when "Heart and Sword," is given a presentation in this city, a marvelously strong and well balanced supporting company will interpret the various characters. The story of the play takes the same trend almost as does "The Prisoner of Zenda," "The Pride of Jerico," "Rupert of Hentzau," and other romantic plays, yet, the dialogue is so inspiringly different, the action so radically superior, that a comparison cannot possibly be made of the plays. Mr. Whiteside interprets his role of Prince Victor, as he has interpreted every role he has ever played, with a grace and skill which add ineffable enjoyment to the piece. Affectation eliminated, Mr. Whiteside ceases to be himself and takes on the character of the Prince. His portrayal of the role is one of the most delightful bits of acting the stage has seen since the reign of romantic plays commenced. Miss Lelia Wolstan is to be seen in the leading female role, that of Princess Sylvia, and the mention of her name is a guarantee of perfection. The production will be staged here at the Brainerd Opera House and unquestionably it will be one of the most delightful plays of the entire season. Mr. Whiteside has mounted and costumed the play in a lavish fashion and in this respect as well as from the standpoint of perfection in the portrayal of the various parts, there is nothing to be desired which is not provided.

HELP FOR BRAINY MEN

Andrew Carnegie's Plan For Scientific Research.

MANY INQUIRIES ALREADY MADE

Some Apply For Positions and Others Seek Assistance--Millionaire's Object is to Aid Exceptional Men Lacking Means to Develop Their Ideas. Says Charles D. Walcott.

Charles D. Walcott, director of the United States geological survey and secretary of the incorporators of the Carnegie Institute, in speaking the other day of the proposed institution said to a Washington representative of the Philadelphia Press:

"It is not to be a university in any sense, although the popular impression seems to be prevalent throughout the country that such is the case. Mr. Carnegie's purpose is to establish an institution where the exceptional man and those who want to follow up some particular branch of scientific research may find ample opportunity and provision for following up such research.

"The institute will undoubtedly be equipped with competent instructors and laboratories in order to further such an end. The plan is to have an administration building, but that matter must be left to the board of trustees. Just what they will do in the matter, however, is conjecture, pure and simple. They are all able men.

"Already I have commenced to receive letters from all parts of the world asking for positions and seeking the institution's aid along the various lines they suggest."

"Then it is the purpose of the Carnegie Institute to aid certain individuals in perfecting inventions?" he was asked.

"Yes," continued the director, "that is exactly what clause 2 of the purposes of the institution means. It is as follows:

"To discover the exceptional man in every department of study, wherever and whenever found, and enable him, by financial aid, to make the work for which he seems specially designed his life work."

"To illustrate," continued the director, "Take the case of a man like Marconi, whose wireless telegraphy achievements have astounded the civilized world."

"If such a man wanted to carry on investigations and experiments along a certain line of invention or scientific research and did not have the means financially or otherwise to do so and applied to the Carnegie Institute for help, he would undoubtedly get it. Of course there will of necessity have to be a committee appointed of men acknowledged to be thorough, practical scientists to examine into each particular case, otherwise the institution might find itself embarrassed by having a lot of cranks with freak inventions applying to it for assistance."

Director Walcott said that it would be the duty of the board of trustees at their meeting in Washington on Jan. 29 or at some future meeting to elect permanent officers of the institute and outline the work that it is to accomplish and methods to be employed in its conduct. He said that the officers of the institution would undoubtedly receive salaries, the amount of which, however, would have to be fixed by the board of trustees. "It is only proposed to use the interest of $10,000,000," he said, "in running the institution."

This money is available now, and the completion of the institute depends upon the manner in which the board of trustees facilitates its organization and future work. The director would not discuss the suggestion that has been made to place the institute on a site near Rosslyn, in Alexandria county, but said that all such matters would have to be left to the board of trustees.

He said in conclusion that those who had incorporated the institute would have nothing further to do with its conduct, as their existence ceased with the appointment of the board of trustees.

There was one entirely new and original figure at the society bachelors' ball just held in New York. The lights in the ballroom were extinguished, says the New York Journal, and the dancers tossed balls lighted electrically gleaming with colors--blue, red and yellow--back and forth over a tennis net stretched for the time across the room.

New Train Signal System.

An instrument has been perfected by F. P. Cobham of Jamestown, N. Y., for signaling between trains on the same railway track, says the New York World. It is based on the wireless telegraph principle and signals automatically when two trains are within 2,000 feet of each other. It also indicates in which direction each of the two trains is running, or if one of them is standing on the track that fact is indicated.

A REPUTATION.

How it was Made and Retained in Brainerd.

A good reputation is not easily earned, and it was only by hard consistent work among our citizens that Doan's Kidney Pills won their way to the proud distinction attained in this locality. The public endorsement of scores of Brainerd residents has rendered invaluable service to the community. Read what this citizen says:

Mr. R. D. Ransom of Third Ave., East Brainerd, fireman at the Brainerd Lumber Co., says: "For as long as twelve or fourteen years I was a sufferer from kidney ailment. My back hurt me awfully; I could stoop but when I attempted to rise, severe pain caught me in the loins. Often in bed I could not change my position and when morning came I had to be helped out of bed. The kidney secretions were of a very unhealthy color and were otherwise irregular. I commenced using Doan's Kidney Pills and one box did me so much good that I took another. The treatment cured me."

LOVE TRIUMPHANT WON THE BATTLE.

Emil Lindberg and Lucy Donahew
After Traveling A Stony Path-
way Are Married.

NOTHING COULD SEPERATE THEM

The Little Episode of Several Weeks Ago Recalled by the
Nuptial Event.

The old adage, "True Love Never Dies," was never more vividly exemplified than in the case of little Lucy Donahew, hardly past her fifteenth summer, who Saturday afternoon was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to the man of her choice Emil Lindberg, Judge M. McFadden having been called upon to officiate.

The story of Lucy's wooing runs like a book, old as the sun, and her fidelity to the one she loved never faltered. It will be remembered about two months ago that the police one night arrested Lucy Donahew and Emil Lindberg and locked them up in the county jail. They were charged with trying to elope, the father of the girl, who lives at Mer-rifield having intercepted a pretty little romance just as the principals were taking a train for Duluth.

The girl's fidelity to Lindberg was proven when on the day which she was to meet her fiancée at Brainerd she walked all the way from Mer-rifield, plodding through the deep snow and facing a cold wind. She met by appointment with Lind-berg, and having been foiled in their efforts to be made one, they decided to go to Duluth to be married.

The young man the next day was brought into court and was charged with abduction. He was sent back to jail under a bond of $1,000. Upon the hearing he was discharged.

The young girl on the day of the arraignment of her lover was taken home by her father.

Nothing daunted, Emil Lindberg set about it to gain the consent of the father of the girl to give him her hand in marriage. He used diplomacy this time, having failed in the strategic efforts of the first attempt.

To all outward appearances he won, for on Saturday he walked into the office of the judge of probate armed with a marriage license and was married to the girl of his choice legally and without opposition.

Lacking Means to Develop Their Ideas, Says Charles D. Walcott.

Charles D. Walcott, director of the United States geological survey and secretary of the incorporators of the Carnegie Institute, in speaking the other day of the proposed institution said to a Washington representative of the Philadelphia Press:

"It is not to be a university in any sense, although the popular impression seems to be prevalent throughout the country that such is the case. Mr. Carnegie's purpose is to establish an institution where 'the exceptional man' and those who want to follow up some particular branch of scientific research may find ample opportunity and provision for following up such research. 'The institute will undoubtedly be equipped with competent instructors and laboratories in order to further such an end. The plan is to have an administration building, but that matter must be left to the board of trustees. Just what they will do in the matter, however, is conjecture, pure and simple. They are all able men.

"Already I have commenced to receive letters from all parts of the world asking for positions and seeking the institution's aid along the various lines they suggest."

"Then it is the purpose of the Carnegie institute to aid certain individuals in perfecting inventions?" he was asked.

"Yes," continued the director, "that is exactly what clause 2 of the purposes of the institution means. It is as follows:

"To discover the exceptional man in every department of study, whenever and wherever found, and enable him, by financial aid, to make the work for which he seems specially designed his life work."

"To illustrate," continued the director, "Take the case of a man like Marconi, whose wireless telegraphy achievements have astounded the civilized world."

"If such a man wanted to carry on investigations and experiments along a certain line of invention or scientific research and did not have the means financially or otherwise to do so and applied to the Carnegie Institute for help, he would undoubtedly get it. Of course there will of necessity have to be a committee appointed of men acknowledged to be thorough, practical scientists to examine into each particu-

Director Walcott said that it would be the duty of the board of trustees at their meeting in Washington on Jan. 29 or at some future meeting to elect permanent officers of the institute and outline the work that it is to accomplish and methods to be employed in its conduct. He said that the officers of the institution would undoubtedly receive salaries, the amount of which, however, would have to be fixed by the board of trustees. "It is only proposed to use the interest of $10,000,000," he said, "in running the institution."

"This money is available now, and the completion of the institute depends upon the manner in which the board of trustees facilitates its organization and future work. The director would not discuss the suggestion that has been made to place the institute on a site near Rosslyn, in Alexandria county, but said that all such matters would have to be left to the board of trustees."

He said in conclusion that those who had incorporated the institute would have nothing further to do with its conduct, as their existence ceased with the appointment of the board of trustees.

There was one entirely new and original figure at the society bachelors' ball just held in New York. The lights in the ballroom were extinguished, says the New York Journal, and the dancers tossed balls lighted electrically gleaming with colors--blue, red and yellow--back and forth over a tennis net stretched for the time across the room.

Kitchener's Electrical Engineers.
A volunteer company of electrical engineers is being prepared for active service in South Africa at the express wish, it is understood, of Lord Kitchener.

New Train Signal System.

An instrument has been perfected by F. P. Cobham of Jamestown, N. Y., for signaling between trains on the same railway track, says the New York World. It is based on the wireless telegraph principle and signals automatically when two trains are within 2,000 feet of each other. It also indicates in which direction each of the two trains is running, or if one of them is standing on the track that fact is indicated.

A REPUTATION.

How it was Made and Retained in Brainerd.

A good reputation is not easily earned, and it was only by hard consistent work among our citizens that Doan's Kidney Pills won their way to the proud distinction attained in this locality. The public endorsement of scores of Brainerd residents has rendered invaluable service to the community. Read what this citizen says:

Mr. R. D. Ransom of Third Ave., East Brainerd, fireman at the Brainerd Lumber Co., says: "For as long as twelve or fourteen years I was a sufferer from kidney ailment. My back hurt me awfully; I could stoop but when I attempted to rise, severe pain caught me in the loins. Often in bed I could not change my position and when morning came I had to be helped out of bed. The kidney secretions were of a very unhealthy color and were otherwise irregular. I commenced using Doan's Kidney Pills and one box did me so much good that I took another. The treatment cured me."

Sold for 50 cents a box, at the McFadden Drug Co., H. P. Dunn & Co., and all druggists. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.
